Learn about the latest hydropower trends at the Voith Hydro Training Workshop

- The three-day event is set for Nov. 5 to 7 in York, Pennsylvania, and is open to all owners and operators of hydroelectric equipment
- Attendees will have an opportunity to visit Voith's manufacturing facility and meet with Voith experts

YORK, Pa. (Oct. 29, 2019) – Voith Hydro North America is inviting all owners and operators of hydropower facilities to the Voith Hydro Training Workshop from Nov. 5 to 7. The event focuses on the future of hydropower and will explore the latest trends in hydropower technology.

"This event is an opportunity for the industry to take a deep dive into the issues that are affecting it the most," said Stan Kocon, President & CEO, Voith Hydro North America. "The hydropower industry is a very mature one. Modernization, automation and digitalization are the wave of the future and something that is impacting every hydro facility in North America. This will be a very informative workshop for all attendees, and we look forward to hearing the thoughts and opinions of our guests."

The workshop's highlights include tours of the manufacturing workshop and hydraulic lab at Voith's facility and multiple sessions on a variety of topics including trends in the design of hydro generators and turbines and modernization opportunities within the industry.

Each morning of the workshop will include a special address by key industry representatives, and attendees can expect keynotes to offer an overview of the hydro industry in North America with an emphasis on the development of new technologies.

The workshop will take place at the Wyndham Garden York, 2000 Loucks Road, York PA 17408, and aims to bridge the gap of knowledge between technical personnel and operators. Sessions will be led by Voith's hydropower and digitalization experts, and attendees will also have numerous networking opportunities.

"We look forward to hosting this event, and we are eager to have a large group of hydropower professionals visiting with us to discuss their needs," said Carl Atkinson, Director of Business Development, Voith Hydro North America. "This is an exciting time for hydropower as new technology makes it even more profitable, sustainable and environmentally friendly. We're eager to share these concepts with the professionals within the industry."
